Stir-Fries

A bowl of Nasi Goreng Bongkot, a traditional Indonesian dish, is presented in a white ceramic bowl. The dish features a base of fried rice, topped with a sunny-side-up fried egg, a piece of chicken satay on a wooden skewer, and several prawn crackers. A small portion of shredded chicken and a garnish of sliced cucumbers and red chili are also visible. The bowl is set on a woven bamboo mat, surrounded by fresh ingredients like a whole onion, a pink lotus flower, and a piece of ginger. The background is a rustic, textured surface.

"Its never too late to experience the true Balinese local taste, local produce, and local price with international standards of quality!"

- Mr. Wayan.

For Bali wanderers visiting the island seems very incomplete without stopping by and savoring the delicacy of local food at Mr. Wayan by the Sea in the breezy wind overlooking the stunning south coast of Bali and the beautiful sunset. The restaurant is an all-dining type of place that opens both for all visitors from in or outside the mall whether to have a quick stop before or after shopping time. It is available for a "to go" service.

It is not the only one venue to serve local food at the area; however, Mr. Wayan offers different taste to enjoy the authenticity of Balinese cuisine especially Mr. Wayan's "signature dishes" such as; Nasi Goreng Bongkot - the not so famous aromatic ginger torch flower fried rice, Be Guling Burger - the authentic homemade suckling pig patty with Mr. Wayan style of dough, and Lawar Kenus - chopped baby squid, snake bean and grated coconut seasoned with an appetizing mix Balinese spices such as chili and baby leaf with coconut milk.

Mr Wayan food philosophy is simple and full of dedication. This is done by implementing the freshest ingredients to all dishes in order to make Balinese food to be more well-known in the culinary world.
